Demonstrates Public Service
Professionalism and Probity
Adheres to and promotes the APS Values and ethical framework as set out in the APS Code of Conduct. Serves the government of the day irrespective of personal preferences. Implements policies and programs based on corporate decisions rather than personal views.

Engages with Risk and Shows Personal Courage
Is prepared to be forthright and 'tell it like it is' (and not how people might like it to be). Is independently minded and willing to challenge ideas and confront issues. Is prepared to acknowledge when in the wrong, and learns from mistakes. Is also prepared to ask for help and values advice from others.

Commits to Action
Is determined, highly motivated and action-oriented. Takes personal responsibility for getting things done, and for the success of the organisation. Handles issues proactively and tries to shape events. Doesn’t procrastinate. Readily invests energy and initiative into progressing work.

Displays Resilience
Remains focused on the objectives even in difficult circumstances. Bounces back after setbacks and remains positive. Maintains energy and willingly invests extra effort when required.

Demonstrates Self Awareness and a Commitment to Personal Development
Shows strong commitment to continued learning. Actively seeks feedback from a wide range of sources. Takes responsibility for own development and for managing self in a way which enables sustained performance. Looks for opportunities to enhance own skills. Values continuing development.

Communicates Clearly
Produces user-friendly verbal and written communication that is clear and concise. Ensures unambiguous delivery of the message, and checks that it has been understood as intended. Keeps people up to date and fully informed of any changes to the original communication.

Listens, Understands and Adapts to Audience
Listens actively to ensure views and information are properly exchanged. Checks with others to ensure their views have been accurately understood. Uses and adapts style as necessary to meet the requirements of the audience. Creates opportunities to listen to those whose input can add value.

Negotiates Persuasively
Establishes credibility and approaches negotiations persuasively. Offers a convincing rationale which has been thought through in advance and carefully positioned with reference to desired organisational outcomes. Allows for a genuine contest of ideas and pulls disparate views into a coherent position, and finds common ground to facilitate agreement and acceptance of mutually beneficial solutions. Reaches negotiated positions, through compromise, which lead to the achievement of the required outcomes.

Exemplifies personal drive and integrity Communicates with influence

The Senior Executive Leadership Capability Framework is an initiative of the Australian Public Service Commission, developed in collaboration with APS agencies.
Senior Executive leaders in the Australian Public Service (APS) play a key role in the delivery of the core functions of the Service. They provide high quality policy advice to Government and implement Government programs, including delivering services to the community. They have a particular accountability to ensure the delivery of outputs that contribute to the achievement of outcomes as determined by government. They must be able to focus on the outputs specific to their agency, and the links between these outputs and broader government goals. This requires them to create a shared vision and sense of purpose for their organisations, to enable and motivate their staff to achieve high performance.

What is the Senior Executive Leadership Capability Framework?

This Framework seeks to establish a shared understanding of the critical success factors for performance in APS leadership roles.

The Framework identifies the five core criteria for high performance by senior executives. Each of the criteria heads a group of inter-related capabilities. The Framework does not describe the functions or responsibilities of particular senior executive roles.

In 2001 the SELC Framework was unanimously endorsed by Portfolio Secretaries as relevant and valid for the SES.

It is envisaged that agency-specific criteria, such as particular qualifications or mobility requirements, will be added to the Framework to meet agency requirements.

This Framework embodies the APS Values. In particular, leadership of the highest quality is one of the APS values and is essential to the achievement of high performance within an environment of change.

The Framework has many potential applications including:
- selection
- leadership development
- performance management
- short- and long-term planning for the Senior Executive Service
- broader organisational development initiatives.

The application of the Framework to APS-wide and agency-specific initiatives will contribute to the achievement of high quality leadership.

The attached information provides supplementary material to the Senior Executive Leadership Capability Framework. It was developed as part of the research into the factors for high performance in APS leadership roles and reflects the language used by participants to describe what senior executive leaders do when they are effective in their roles.

A flexible tool

The capabilities are based on the requirements of the APS now and into the future. They have been identified through extensive, validated research, and consultation with a wide range of leaders in the APS.

The balance between and within the five criteria is dependent on the work of the particular agency, the demands and levels of individual jobs, and the mix of skills required in the Senior Executive team.
Supplementary material to the Senior Executive Leadership Capability Framework was developed as part of the research into the factors for high performance in APS leadership roles.

In 2003 this material expanded to describe the Capabilities in terms of what executive and senior executives from EL1 to SES Band 3 levels do when they are effective in their roles.
